SATURDAY'S HORSE RACE.—The race on the Island'course Saturday between Tom List's "Harry Warden" and A. M. Walter's "Billy Cheaten," attracted quite a large number of spectators to the grounds, and thore was a good deal of betting going on, Warden being the favorite. Two to one was offered on him with few takers. The result proved the wisdom of the judgment of the betters, the successive heats being all won by List's horse, in 2:471, 2:441 and 2:48, respectively. Cheatem never showed front, and the race created no excitement, little interest, indeed, being manifested after the start, at which Warden seemed to have a slight advantage. J. Frank Simpson, Fred Huseman, Ed. Wagner and Harry Warden acted as judges.

The Greenback Mass Merting.—The meeting at the Cort House, Saturday night, in the interests of the Greenback-Labor party, was a very creditable gathering, the assembly being large, orderly and attentive, for the surroundings. J. H. Burt was chosen to preside, and made a few brief remarks conveying to the audience his thanks for the honor conferred, and congratulating them upon this opportunity to hear the Greenback Gospel expounded by its leading apostle. Gen. Weaver's speech is treated of in our editorial columns this morning at length. It was followed by a brief one by Robert Marshall, Esq., who appeared in response to peremptory calls by the audience, and was introduced by Mr. Burt as 'our local favorite.' His speech was short and ringing, and was received with considerable applause by the multitude, which dispersed seemingly in quite a favorable applause by the multitude, which dispersed seemingly in quite a favorable and the party. bout Himself and His Party and The Prospects—His Testimony Concern-ing Bull-Dozing in the South— He Will Carry West Virgipis, "In His Mind,"

A representative of the Intelligences had several good opportunities during General James B. Weaver's stay in Wheeling to converse with that distinguished gentleman, and he took advantage of these opportunities to learn something of the General's views in regard to the prospects of the Greenback party in the present and future campaigns, both locally and nation-commanding voice, and a frank but somewhat dogmatic manner of speaking.

Saturday's Cincinnati Enquiere contained a series of charges brought by W. M. Edwardy, a journalist of Montgomery, Alabama, against Weaver, which, briefly and categorically stated, are as follows:
"First—General Weaver is in daily communication with the leading Republican paper of the North—the New York Times. To this paper he reports daily his movements. While in Birmingham on the 15th inst., he dictated a telegram to the Times. I wrote it out, carrying it to the telegram ho office myself and paid for it. The telegram is now on file at the Western Union Telegraph Company's Office, at Birmingham. "Second—I know that General Weavarrival in Montgomery it was necessary for him to communicate with said committee in order to find out when his appointments for West Virginia began. He has no control over his own movements, but was ignorant himself when and where he would go.

"Third—General Weaver's expenses ar

This was communicated to me by Jesse Harper, a member of the Greenback National Committee, who is now speaking in North Alabama. I met him in Birmingham on the 24th, and he informed me that General Weaver would complete his cauvass in West Virginia, De Laj Matyr and himself would, finish up in Alabama, and they would, all be present at the joint meeting of the Committee in Chicago on the 9th of August.

"5. It is the present intention of the two committees not to put a Republican Electoral ticket in the field, but to put out a Greenback Electoral ticket with a secret understanding that half are to vote for Garfield. This course was communicated to me by Jesse Harper, General Weaver and George Turner, Chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee, who will approve of this measure.

When asked about this Saturday night, Gen. Weaver denounced the statement as false from beginning to end. He said the dispatch referred to by Edwardy was written by that gentleman of his own volition, and was the only one sept sent to, the New York Times, it being sent also to the Chicago Times, a Democratic paper. Concerning the collusion between the Greenback and Republican committees, so far as Weaver's knowledge went, he said the charge was so false as to be ridiculous. He himself was doing all in his power against the Republican party, and believed its downfall was necessary to the perpetuity of American liberties. He appealed to the reporter to know if his utterances the reporter to know if his utterance the Court House sounded like the

This offer being rejected, the man proceeds to concect what he considers a damaging story.

"Upon what do you base your expectations?"

"Why, sir, the Republican party of Alabama has come into our ranks in a body. They say down there they cannot have any free election with a just count so long as they retain their party organization, so they have abandoned it, in the hope that the Bourbons will not have the same prejudice against us as against them. This made an accession to our party of about 90,000 voters. Then we have gained some 25,000 from the Democracy. This, with our former independent strength, ought to give from 47,000 to 55,000 majority in that State. But that is not saying by any means that we will carry the State."

"How is that? What do you mean?"

"How is that? What do you mean?"

were sober truths, the General having taken extraordinary pains to investigate the truth of the charges. Ballot box stuffing also, he found to be largely practiced in Alabama, and bull-doning was commonly carried on. An inatance of the latter was given as an illustration.

The week before Gen. Weaver spoke at Montgomery there had been a Republican meeting broken up by a mob there. After the speakers had been driven from the stand the drunken City Solicitor of Montgomery mounted it and yelled: "G-d-them, they can out vote us, but we'll count 'em out every time." This story, incredible as it may seem, Gen. Weaver says he had from incontestible authority. says he had from incontestible authority.

Quite a crowd soon gathered, and all were anxious to learn the cause of the shooting. To an INTELLI-GENCER reporter Mr. Fred. Laughlin told GENCER reporter Mr. Fred. Laughlin told the following story: "My father and brother are at Zanesville, and I am the only member of the family in the city. I and a negro servant have charge of the house in the absence of my father. Saturday Mr. George Baird, Jr., and I intended going to Bethany, but abandoned the idea. I ran back into the back room, got out my revolver, and then returned to the parlor and blazed away indiscriminately, not however before I heard a shot in the front yard or street, which was soon explained by the appearance of the servant who said he had heard the first shot and in a moment afterwards a man ran around the house at whose retreating form he had shot, but without effect. Constable J. P. St. Myers then came in and a thorough search was made not the house and cellar but no one was found. That is all. Mr. Laughlin then the shot was fired at him also a deep ridge in the back door of the parlor made by the bullet of the intruder. "This fact no dout saved my life as the ball dropped to the floor, spent after it struck the door," is said Mr. Laughlin.

The affair was certainly a mysterious on, and all who were present were non-plased over it. "One coulsion was that that if Hancock should be given to the spirit of disorder in his State, that he could not live there a day.

Concerning the chances for the success of the Greenbackers in this State, Gen. Weaver seemed very sanguine. He said Ohio county was the least favorable county in the State. He thought the State would give a large majority for the Greenback ticket. He was also hopeful of carrying Arkanasa, Texas and Mississippi in the South, and Maine and California in the North, Missouri, also, he was disposed to claim, and he thought that in another year or so Michigan and Wisconsiu would be enrolled as Greenback States. He thought the number of Congressinen of the party would be largely increased this year, and that eventually the mission of the party would be largely increased this year, and that eventually the mission of the party would be largely increased this year, and that eventually the mission of the greenback Labor Organization will be accomplished and its principles triumph.

He compared the movement to the uprising zgainst slavery which gave birth tothes Republican party.

This, the General explains, is meant simply to condemn the extensive grants of land made by the Government of the General, "endorse, nor do I counted the General, "endorse, nor do I count in the house until after he had shot at the man from the outside. When the reporter left the house Mr. Laughlin and one or two friends were mounting guard, and as implements of defense had several mountain howitzers revolvers, forty-five cabibre, besides other small guns, and the man who attempted to get in that house last night would make a first class minnow trap this morning.

Box Found in the River With a Sa picious Bively?

Yesterday afternoon shortly after dinner a boy named Edward Kain, son of Thos. Kain, who lives near Corktown, above the Top mill, discovered a cigar box floating the contents scanned, the boy was frightened and hurried down to Justice H. W. Phillips, of North Wheeling, where Deputy Sheriff R. H. Phillips took charge of the box and opened it, when the following articles were found:

lowing articles were found:

A receipt from Campbell, Williamson & Dick, of Pittsburgh, for $10 00 for a suit purchased from that firm and sold by No. 7. In the box were four black bracelets, only two of which were mates; a black feather; two or three black silk neckties; part of an earring; an orange peel, and one, or two other trifling articles.

A note written upon a sheet of letter A note, written upon a sheet of letter paper was found in the box, which reads as follows:

"The finder of this will know is all that remains of a once promising but now a disgraced being, made voluntary by my own hands, finding my life unbearable I send my soul to hell."

This note was signed by Miss Hively or Lively, the reporter could hardly determine which.

determine which.

The handwriting, very poor, and evidently written with much difficulty, and the articles in the box indicate that whoever the unfortunate was, she was very poor and ignorant. There is no one by the name of Hively from this neighborhood, and we would infer that she halled from up the river somewhere. The affair caused quite a little excitement in the city for some time, but of course nothing but conjecture was the result.
